

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's telephone privacy law protections. This privacy law has significantly improved my time at home by decreasing the number of solicitation calls per week. Before the law went into effect, I received at least 20 calls per week during evening and weekend hours; I now receive about 4-5 per week.